20 YEARS OF CELEBRITY

Several prominent personalities and celebrities actively supported the educational mission of Associazione Diplomatici. Politicians as Bill Clinton, Javier Solana, Boris Tadic, Enrico Letta, and Romano Prodi, and sportsmen and women as Marco Tardelli, Michel Platini, Carlo Ancelotti, Bebe Vio, Andrea Pirlo and Tania Cagnotto. But also, big names from the world of culture and science such as Ilaria Capua, Francesco De Gregori and Mario Martone.

These are just some of the guests who, year after year, have honored us with their presence at our events.
The increasing importance of financial activity in everyday life has pushed us to devise a unique educational program to train future leaders to understand not only the complexity of financial dynamics in globalized markets, but knowing how to grasp the connection between geopolitics and finance and their strategic implications.

Through a simple and accessible didactic approach, EMSE - Global Market & Geopolitics Lab allows participants to analyze the interconnections between geopolitical events and the performance of the financial markets. EMSE gives you the possibility to understand these interactions through a hands-on approach.

The main focus is oriented to the discovery, by creating and managing a $120.000,00 portfolio, of the bilateral relationship between macro-economic and financial dynamics, and global cultural, political and social changes.
The project has a practical approach and aims to give you an inside view of the financial world and to develop the following knowledge and skills:

- Discover the financial markets, the main operators and their relationships, and the main financial instruments.
- Understand the correlation between global politics and finance.
- Being able to identify the effects that certain geopolitical events may have on international markets (and vice-versa).
- Understand the economic policies implemented by the States to limit the effects of external contingencies on the markets.
- Evaluate the pros and cons of buying market assets, financial instruments and commodities while creating your ideal portfolio.

The course is open to high school and university students and there are no specific requirements for access as the course is only a basis for any subsequent further study.

EMSE is not designed to provide preparatory knowledge for investment activities or the implementation of financial strategies.
EMSE includes practical activities, laboratory sessions, masterclasses and frontal teaching classes. The project is developed in 10 (online) meetings lasting 2:00 hours each.

The theoretical component of the educational path provides an overview of the financial markets, the main operators and the most current financial instruments.

Great space will be also given to the critical analysis of important case studies through which tutors will trace the most significant features of the correlation between geopolitics and finance. Some in-depth studies (virtual masterclasses) will also be conducted by the portfolio managers and analysts of KAIROS, one of the most prestigious and exclusive European financial Firm and experts in finance and geopolitics.

Participants work in teams in the management of a financial $120,000.00 portfolio (through the eToro platform), and they will create a Strategic Outlooks based on the choices made in the portfolio composition and on hypothetical future scenarios specifically designed for simulations / exercises.

At the end of the project, the work of each team will be evaluated by the board of EMSE who will choose to assign a prize / recognition to the team (s) that will have:

- generated the greatest amount of credits through the most profitable portfolio management;
- created the most accurate and realistic Strategic Outlook during the exercises.
The course is the starting point to become a future investor. Each lesson has a practical approach and aims, thanks also to KAIROS portfolio managers and market analysts, to give you an inside view of the financial world. Furthermore, your EMSE tutor, will guide you through the portfolio creation and management providing the perfect assistance to become a more knowledgeable investor.
